Modern Slavery Awareness

Introduction

Modern slavery is a complex crime that affects thousands of people across the UK. It takes several different forms including slavery, servitude, forced and compulsory labour and human trafficking.

The Modern Slavery Act (MSA) came into force in 2015 to give authorities the tools to fight modern slavery and set out how the UK should deal with the issues raised. One of the key parts of the legislation requires applicable organisations to disclose on a yearly basis what actions they have taken to ensure that there is no modern slavery in their organisation or supply chains.

Our Modern Slavery Awareness eLearning course will help inform your managers and employees of the types of slavery, what to be aware of, and their responsibilities with regards to modern slavery and your organisation.

Aims of the course

The Modern Slavery eLearning aims to raise awareness of the important issues about modern slavery, with the eLearning identifying potential issues within both the organisation and its supply chain and when and how to raise a 'Red Flag'.

Who is it for?

This course has been developed for all levels of employee, in any role, and across all sectors.

How is it delivered?
